

Preface	p. 7
Acknowledgments	p. 14
DEVELOPMENTAL ISSUES
Dieter Kastovsky , Historical English word-formation. From a monostratal to a polystratal system	p. 17
Nikolaus Ritt , The disappearance of stems and devolutions of Middle English vowel quantity	p. 33
Rolando Bacchielli , The origins and development of formative /l/ in the history of English word-formation: a speculative and factual account	p. 51
Ursula Gretschmann , The French component in Modern English word-formation: diachrony within synchrony	p. 67
TEXT-BASED INQUIRIES
David Burnley , Word-formation in fourteenth-century London: problems and opportunities	p. 79
Nicola Pantaleo , Trolli-lolli, handy-dandy: word play, lexical chaining and language contamination in Piers Plowman	p. 93
Carmela Nocera Avila , The formation of new words in Hoby's translation of the Courtier (1561)	p. 101
Maria Lima , The name of the thing: Noun+Noun combinations in Allen Ginsburg's Howl	p. 115
Gabriella Mazzon , The language acrobat: word-formation creativity and humour in P. G. Wodehouse	p. 125
SPECIFIC FACETS AND PROBLEMS
David Hart , Compound forms. Description and classification, with particular reference to compound adjectives	p. 139
Gigliola Sacerdoti Mariani , Word-malformations and the authoritarian attitude towards language usage	p. 153
Silvana La Rana , Early Modern English word-formation revisited: nonce vs. nonce	p. 165
Roberta Facchinetti , Lexical potentialities of the prefix non- in Early Modern English	p. 175
Paola Tornaghi , About some nominal compounds in Beowulf	p. 191
Maurizio Gotti , Ware- from compounding to suffixation	p. 205
Maria Teresa Prat Zagrebelsky , Blending in English: some new examples from the '80s	p. 219
WORD-FORMATION IN VARIETIES AND SPECIFIC LANGUAGES
Luisanna Fodde , Grandiloquence and hyperbole: word-formation in American English during the Westward Migration (1787-1860)	p. 229
Gabriella Di Martino , "New Science" - new words in the seventeenth century	p. 239
Adriana Mattei , Word-formation in 17th century English medical terminology	p. 251
Daniele Ballarini , English word-formation in trade names	p. 259
Derek Boothman , Colourless green duces contain heavy flavours: naming scientific reality	p. 267

Annamaria Caimi Valentini, Bankruptcy: from legislation to word-formation. A binary historical approach

p. 277

Vivienne Jamieson Perria, Outlines of the development of a terminology

p. 285